Dear Parents and Carers

Finishing Strong

As we approach the final stretch of the term, this is a crucial moment for everyone to refocus, work hard, and make the most of the time that remains. The last term isn't just about wrapping things up—it's about proving how far we've come and setting ourselves up for success.

A Time to Push Forward

Now is the time to double down on effort: consistent hard work over these last weeks can have a significant impact on results.

Improving

It's also a chance to reflect and improve. If there are areas where you've struggled earlier in the year, don't let that define your final outcome. Seek support, ask questions, and revisit challenging topics.

A Positive Mindset Matters

Remember, effort and attitude go hand in hand. Believe in your ability to improve and finish strong. Staying positive, even when things feel tough, will help you push through challenges and maintain momentum.

Finish Strong

The effort you put in now will shape your final outcomes and set the tone for what comes next. Let's finish the term with determination, pride, and a strong sense of achievement.

Question for thought:

How do you choose what to do when you have a really important decision to make?

As a family, you can discuss the above question...what do you think?

Matthew 5:16

Dear Parents and Carers,

Being a good friend means showing care, understanding, and loyalty in both happy and difficult moments. A good friend listens without judgment, offers support when it's needed, and celebrates others' successes without jealousy. Trust and honesty are essential, because strong friendships are built on reliability and open communication. Even small actions, like checking in or being present, can make someone feel valued and appreciated.

Positivity plays a powerful role in friendship. When you approach situations with a positive attitude, you bring encouragement, hope, and energy into the relationship. This can lift someone's mood, help them see solutions instead of problems, and create a more enjoyable and supportive connection. Being positive does not mean ignoring challenges, but rather facing them with optimism and strength.

Together, kindness, trust, and positivity make friendships stronger, happier, and more meaningful, creating lasting bonds that can withstand life's ups and downs.

The final push to the Summer break has begun: this is an incredibly busy term for everyone in school, not to mention the long awaited statutory assessment results.

All the staff hope that you have a wonderful weekend and we are looking forward to seeing you all next week.
